NEW ORLEANS, La., July 28.-Atwood, Violet & Co., say: Futures—The continued favorable crop accounts have still further weakened Liver-pool, and we find spots neglected, sales only 5000 bales, and futures 1-64d lower than last night. On this side there has been a good deal of unloading of long cotton bought on the sharp decline of several days ago, under the impression that a prompt reac-tion would follow, and prices as a result are much lower to-day than at any previous time, Decembers selling here at 7.50, and in New York at 7.97. There was a little recovery before closing, which is at a loss of 6 points here and 6 points in New York. Our senior wires from New York that the feeling there is very weak, and that 7c is talked of freely.

New York, July 28.—The stock market to-day displayed a materially better tone on the whole than yesterday, while prices made considerable progress in recovery of the loss of the previous day. There was a marked decrease in the amount of business done during the day, and dealings sextended to a smaller number of stocks than yesterday. The apathy of speculators seems, however, not to have been broken as yet, and the hopes of Wall street men that the dullness had been checked by the dofirm at small fractional advances for the day in the active stocks. Active shares, however, are nearly all up large fractions, and Burlington is I per cent higher than

Bob Jones and Wife Charged With Burn ing a Barn Near Ennis.

WAXABACHIE, ELLIS COUNTY, TEX., July WAXAHACHE, ELLIS COUNTY, TEX., July 28.—Bob Jones and wife were arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff J. S. Boren, near Ennis. Jones and his wife are charged with the burning of Mrs. J. R. Farris' large brick barn near Ennis. The burning took place last Christmas morning and was a disastrous one, as the barn was very large and contained many thousand bushels of grain, stock, vehicles and farm implements. There have been a number of detectives at work on the case, but all failed to get a clew at the guilty ones, except Mr. to get a clew at the guilty ones, except Mr. Boren, who, with his diligent efforts and faithfulness to his cause, at last succeeded in bringing in the wrong-doers to justice Jones and his wife are in fail.

HIS THEORY PROVED.

CENTRIC OLD MAN.

He Claimed the Mode of Kemler's Taking Off Was Totally Wrong, and Proved it to His Own Satisfaction, at Least-

Werr City, Mo., July 28.—For several years past there has lived in this city an ec-centric old man named John Thomas. He was noted for his kindness and was always willing to do anyone a favor. He was not talkative, but on occasions would get confi-dential and would mourn the fact that he was alone in the world. Thomas spent his odd hours in studying the effect of elec-tricity on animals and the human system. He claimed that the manner of applying the wires to Kemler at Auburn prison was to-tally wrong, and was accountable for the apparent torture which that unfortunate uan was compelled to suffer. His idea was that it was the sympathetic ganglia of nerves which should be shocked. He was tauch interested in the killing of the four fruch interested in the killing of the four fructerers at Sing Sing on July 7, and wrote to Warden Brown for permission to assist in their execution. To this letter he re-ceived no reply. After the execution he was much engrossed in the details as gleaned from the press accounts of the affair, but said the whole theory was wrong. There should have been to muscular contraction. should have been no muscular contraction The current was applied to the wrong set of nerves. He said there was too much elecnerves. He said there was too much elec-tricity used. If proper appliances had been the hands death was lingering, but when it passed directly through the body death was instantaneous.

His theory was to place an electrode directly over the pit of the stomach and the other at the back, thus passing the current through the great ganglion of the pneumogastric nerve. This he claimed would cause instantaneous paralysis of the heart and lungs. Thomas appeared to become insone on the subject and it was the theme of his conversation at all times and places, and weeks and refused to admit anyon.

Some hints that Thomas had dropped induced his neighbors to break into the house and they found that he had proved his theory to his own satisfaction at least. He had constructed the most ingenious apparatus by which he had utilized the electric light cur-rent and killed himself. With insulated wires he made the conwith instance were ne made the con-nect is to an arrangement of st el rods at his bed, which were so arranged that when he laid down one electrode was between his shoulders and he could then place the other over the pit of his stomach. In each electrode was a sponge which had evidently been moistened. He had mad a peculiar switch board, which worked in such a man switch board, which worked in such a man-ner that the light wire could be cut out and the current deflected to the apparatus at the bed. This was accomplished by pulling a cord which hung at the side of the bed. When the cord was released the spring would force the switch back, forcing the current back into the light.

Thomas had made all his preparations and then deliberately laid himself upon the the bed, adjusted the electrodes and pulleathe cord. Death came in an instant, and he died without a struggle. Not a muscle had twitched to disarrange the body. The cord had been released by the dead hand them. had been released by the dead hand upon he instant of the shock, and a second con-tact was not necessary. The strength of the current was about twelve hundred volts, showing the the current through the voits, showing that the current chrough the pneumogastric nerve requires neither so heavy nor so prolonged a shock as through the brain and spinal cord. Not a mark or ster was seen on the body to indicate burning.
